

COMING GOLF MATCH IS PRINCIPAL TOPIC

Teams of Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce to Compete.

Contest for Cup and Sundry Other Prizes to Take Place Wednesday Afternoon.

President Cuno H. Rudolph of the Board of Trade has canceled all other engagements for Wednesday afternoon and President William F. Gude of the Chamber of Commerce has done likewise, in order that they might be present to receive the coveted trophy—a cup to be presented to the team winning the golf match to be played by the two business organizations.

For the past two weeks some thirty business men, members of the two organizations, have absented themselves from their places of business and it has just leaked out they have been spending that time on the golf links in preparation for the coming contest, which is to take place at 1 o'clock on the course of the Columbia Golf Club.

So much interest has been aroused over this match that a large gallery of members of the two organizations will be on hand to watch the play, on which the ownership of several dozen boxes of fine cigars will depend. The principal trophy, however, is a large silver loving cup offered by Shaw & Brown to become the property of the team winning it three times.

Was Main Topic.

The principal topic of conversation at the Board of Trade had been yesterday was the forthcoming match. In addition to the other prizes, President Gude has offered a handsome bunch of roses to the player who makes the lowest round. Charlie King has also offered a box of golf balls to the player winning the greatest number of holes.

Under the rules as proposed each match will count one point, but a new system of scoring is being considered. If this should be adopted, each victory will count one point, with a quarter of a point for each hole which the winner is up at the conclusion of the match. If, for instance, one contestant was four up on his opponent after holing out on the eighteenth green, he would score two points, one for the win and one for the four holes. This system of scoring is a novelty here, it is stated, but has the advantage of keeping up the interest in each match until the last putt is made.

Tom Grant, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who has had a series of bottle pool contests this spring with John F. Slaven, has offered to caddy for the latter on the following conditions: If Mr. Slaven wins, Grant receives no compensation, but if he loses the secretary is to be possessor of a new hat.

Commissioner Newman Practicing.

Commissioner Newman of the Chamber of Commerce has been rising from his couch each morning at daybreak in order to get in a few hours' practice. His present handicap is eighteen, but it is believed that after this match it will be approximately ten.

Herbert Shannon has placed himself in the hands of the Country Club professional and is showing wonderful improvement. His score the early part of the week—85—has been the sole topic of discussion, and it is rumored that the official handicapper may reduce his handicap to a point where his Board of Trade competitor will have at least a chance to win.

Otto De Moll has arranged to have a large photograph mounted on a small truck follow him in his round, the records to be exclusively Scotch selections, in order that the artistic atmosphere may be complete.

Personnel of the Teams.

The team selected to represent the Board of Trade is composed of Henry L. West, captain; John C. Davidson, George P. James, Charles A. Watson, Paris E. Brengle, Arthur B. Heaton, R. E. Burks, Alex. Leitch, Hugh Kelly, Fred B. Pyle, Charles A. Langley, John C. Walker, T. A. Weston, Leo C. Brooks, J. C. Letts, Robert W. Cox, E. C. Whitford, Robinson White, Eugene C. Gott and E. S. Marlow. It is expected that the two captains, Messrs. Weaver and West, will play against each other. Both are familiar with the Columbia Country Club course and have frequently played in friendly matches.

Mr. Davidson holds the amateur record for the Columbia course—71—and was the winner recently of the Washington Club tournament. With Mr. James he helped last week to win the Mid-Atlantic Association trophy in Richmond for the Columbia Club. Every effort will be made to match players of the same caliber against each other, so as to insure an interesting series of contests.

The Chamber of Commerce will be represented by John J. Weaver, captain; John W. Brawner, Harris N. Brown, O. De Moll, William John Eynon, H. A. Jull, E. S. Marlow, Oliver S. Metzgerott, W. H. Moses, John L. Newbold, Commissioner Oliver P. Newman, J. Albert Shafter, Herbert T. Shannon, John F. Slaven and Donald Woodward.

USE OF CHESTNUT TIMBER.

Forest Service Tells How Best to Use Blight-Killed Trees.

Methods for the using up chestnut timber, killed by the chestnut blight, are suggested in a bulletin issued by the forest service. It is asserted that chestnut wood from eight to ten inches in diameter is perfectly good if manufactured within two years after being killed by the blight. Wood up to eighteen inches in diameter is said to remain good for six years after being killed. The forest service, however, recommends using up blight-killed wood as soon as possible after the tree is dead.

Recommendations are made to timber and land owners that all of the medium small timber possible should be cut and sold for telephone and telegraph poles, because the preparation of these poles is cheap and the returns are proportionately greater than for any other form the timber can take. At the same time telephone and telegraph companies are becoming more and more chary about accepting chestnut poles of any sort, because it is impossible to tell after they are cured whether they have been blight-killed or not. Sometimes where the trees are badly blight-infected there are large soft areas in the wood that do not show until a limber sticks are climbing from them. These "limber" "widow makers." For this reason neither the companies nor their limen want anything to do with chestnut poles if they can avoid it.

The forest service recommends firewood, black cooperage, shingles and railroad ties as among the most profitable methods of disposing of blight-killed chestnut timber.

Potato Prices Go Soaring.

Potatoes are up to an average price, seventy-one cents a bushel, for the whole United States, according to a statement of the crop board just issued. This is at least 50 per cent higher than they were on the first of May a year ago. A part of the advance is attributed to the quarantine restrictions imposed, owing to the presence of powdery mild and other diseases.

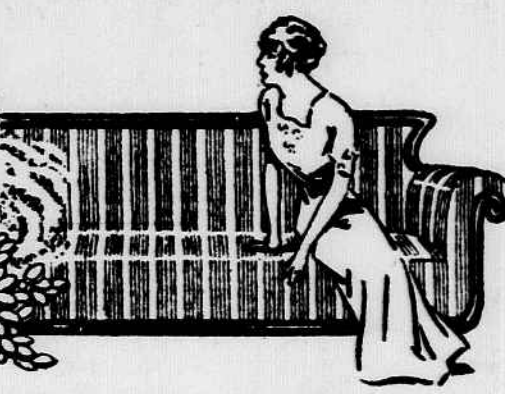

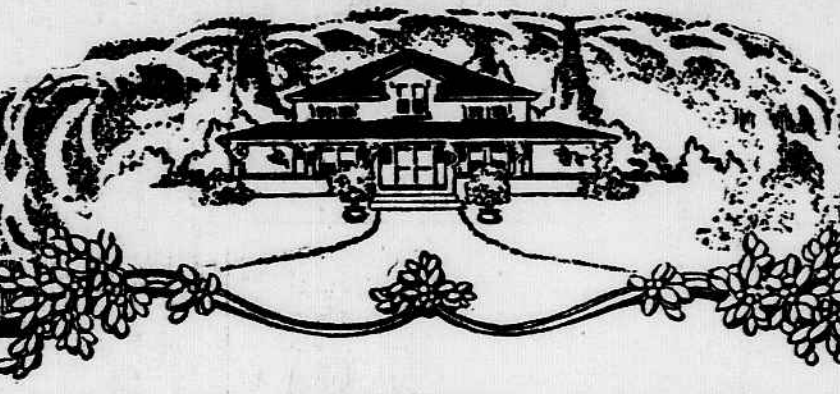

Capt. E. L. Mills of the Sharpshooters, sailing from Ocala, Fla., is planning to name his new steamer the Helkat, a combination of names of his daughters, Helen and Kate.
